Chapter 5: Functions in Python

Functions are reusable blocks of code defined using the def keyword.

Functions take input arguments and can return output values using the return statement.